

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Title Page.....	i
Vita of Author
Abstract.....	ii
Table of Contents.....	iv
Acknowledgements.....	vii
Dedication.....	viii
Partial Copyright License
Chapter I: Introduction.....	1
Statement of the Problem.....	1
Purpose of the study.....	2
Significance.....	2
Definition of Terms.....	6
Chapter II: Literature Review.....	10
Introduction.....	10
Chapter III: Methodology.....	38
Introduction.....	38
Subjects and Setting.....	39
Data Collection.....	40
Initial Contact.....	40
Interview Process.....	41

Preparation.....	41
Rapport Building Session.....	42
The Interview.....	43
Data Analysis.....	45
Questions.....	46
Chapter IV: Results.....	48
Data Analysis.....	48
Introduction.....	48
Background of Participants.....	48
Figure 1:Initial Family Break-up.....	48
Figure 2: Developmental Levels.....	49
Figure 3: Relationship Types.....	49
Figure 4: Reasons for Initial Break-up.....	50
Figure 5: Sibling Relationships.....	50
Expectations of Stepfamily Relationships.....	51
Figure 6: Expectations of Live-in Relationships.....	62
Actual Stepfamily Experiences.....	63
Recommended Stepfamily Changes.....	88
Figure 7: Children Recommended Changes...91
Figure 8: Adult Recommended Changes.....93

Additional Findings.....	93
Figure 9: Additional Findings.....	105
Chapter V: Discussion.....	106
Stepfamily Definition.....	106
Summary of Findings.....	107
Figure 10: Experiences in a Stepfamily.....	113
Limitations of the Study.....	124
Implications for Future Research.....	125
References.....	127
Appendix A: Stepfamilies: Children Speak Out Information Outline	131
Appendix B: Experience and Opinions Information Poster.....	133
Appendix C: Question Outline.....	134
Appendix D: University of Victoria Human Studies & Ethics Committee Approval for Research.....	135

